Collaboration Series @salesforcetower

July 29, 2021, San Francisco, CA – BOXBLUR and Immersive Arts Alliance are pleased to announce the program schedule for the west coast debut of Shimon Attie's Night Watch, a floating, media arts installation that will travel the San Francisco Bay and Oakland Estuary, on the evenings of September 17 – 19, 2021 (6:15pm – 9pm).

Night Watch features video portraits on a 20ft-wide, high-resolution LED screen, which will travel along the San Francisco Bay and Oakland Estuary aboard a large, slow-moving barge to allow for on-shore public viewing. Displayed on the screen are silent, close-up video portraits of twelve refugees who were granted political asylum in the United States. The images largely feature members of international LGBTQI communities, as well as unaccompanied minors, who fled tremendous violence and discrimination in their homelands of Colombia, Honduras, Jamaica, Kazakhstan, Nigeria, Peru, and Russia.

The floating installation combines contemporary LED technology with an anachronistic mode of transport – a barge – to create a complex and layered artistic and sculptural tableau. Night Watch will activate and animate the San Francisco Bay as both a literal and metaphoric site and landscape for escape, rescue, safe-passage, and the offering of safe-harbor for those most vulnerable. The artwork engages one of the most urgent issues of our time – that of welcoming or closing our doors to asylum seekers.

“As we emerge from the pandemic, many of us are thinking about how to support one another and bring organizations and people together through the arts,” states Catharine Clark, BOXBLUR, co-producer. “We are operating from the idea that art has the capacity to transform and heal, as well as shed light on social justice issues and underscore core values, such as welcoming the stranger. Shimon Attie’s Night Watch does just that by allowing us to reflect on what asylum means on a global, national, local, spiritual, and personal level. We believe that the arts deepen our understanding of democracy and in turn, help to shape policy and humanitarian responses. The significant participation of 40 plus partnering organizations underscores how education and awareness made possible through the arts is best communicated through collaborative efforts. Many of these organizations will also be hosting panel discussions, talks, film screenings, exhibits, and other educational events in conjunction with Night Watch.”

Leading up to the three-nights of September shoreline activations, free and ticketed off-site events, exhibitions, panels, and screenings, will be presented by Night Watch partner organizations beginning in August. Presenting organizations include, Berkeley Art Museum and Pacific Film Archive, California College for the Arts, Catharine Clark Gallery, Congregation Emanu-El, Gray Area, Fort Mason Center for Arts & Culture, Minnesota Street Project, Museum of the African Diaspora, PhotoAlliance, Saint Joseph’s Arts Foundation, San Francisco Art Institute, and University of San Francisco. In collaboration with Night Watch, Jim Campbell and his team have selected Zeina Barakeh to present, Standard of Capital, a new video curated for the Boston Properties, Salesforce Tower, Midnight Artist Collaboration series.

Partnerships with non-profit organizations representing the needs of refugees and immigrants will provide educational materials and resources to the public online and at the live performance sites; Catholic Charities, Center for Gender & Refugee Studies, Immigration Institute of the Bay Area, International Rescue Committee, The LGBT Asylum Project, Oasis Legal Services, Partnerships for Trauma Recovery, and Roots Community Health Center.

“The tremendous support of organizational partners and donors for Night Watch is emblematic of the strength of our communities,” said Catharine Clark, co-producer, Night Watch. “Made possible by 100% philanthropic funding, donations, and in-kind gifts, Night Watch is something of a love letter to the San Francisco Bay Area, sanctuary cities, and the individuals who comprise our communities.”

The presentation of Night Watch in San Francisco coincides with the opening of Shimon Attie’s solo exhibition Here, not Here, at Catharine Clark Gallery on September 18, 2021.

Shimon Attie was born in Los Angeles, educated in the San Francisco Bay Area, and lives in New York. He has received numerous visual artist fellowships, including from: John S. Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, the American Academy in Rome (The Rome Prize), The National Endowment for the Arts, The Pollock-Krasner Foundation, The Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study at Harvard University, Kunstfonds (Germany's NEA equivalent), and a Lee Krasner Lifetime Achievement Award. Attie's artistic practice is expansive: public installation, photography, multi-channel video, and mixed media works. His career is international and is represented by Jack Shainman Gallery. For more than two decades, Attie's work has reflected on the relationship between place and memory. He often engages with local communities and collaborates with non-profit organizations to reimagine relationships between space, time, and place. An interest in loss, communal trauma, and the potential for regeneration shape Attie's approach to his practice. <http://shimonattie.net/>

BOXBLUR emerged from a history of performances at Catharine Clark Gallery. In 2016, this effort was formalized as BOXBLUR, a fiscally sponsored program of Dance Film SF. BOXBLUR collaborates with other organizations that amplify communal values. A central piece of BOXBLUR's program is its partnership with the San Francisco Dance Film Festival. BOXBLUR produces socially engaged projects that are performative, often experimental, and are realized in conversation with a visual artist's work. BOXBLUR's projects expand the presentation and definition of performance in non-proscenium settings. <https://cclarkgallery.com/exhibitions/boxblur-attie-night-watch-2021>
