"Soft Target/Gay Bash," 2018 Timothy Cummings Acrylic on panel; 24 x 18 inches unframed, 25 1/4 x 19 1/4 framed

"Soft Targets" at Catherine Clark Gallery showcases works by TIMOTHY CUMMINGS in which the artist renders exquisitely crafted narrative and portrait paintings on panel which decidedly defy his lack of formal training. The exhibition is on view through September 1, 2018.

"The subjects of his work are often children and adolescents struggling with issues of sexuality and sexual orientation in an adult world," says the gallery. "Throughout the United States, Cummings' work has been exhibited at LACE Gallery (Los Angeles, CA); the Laguna Art Museum (Laguna Beach, CA); the Hunterdon Art Museum (Clinton, New Jersey); and Yerba Buena Center for the Arts (San Francisco, CA)," the gallery informs.

Cummings was an artist-in-residence and subject of a solo exhibition at Transarte Institute in São Paulo, Brazil in 2013. Through his career, his work has been represented in permanent collections of Di Rosa Gallery in Napa, California and in the personal collections of Laura Lee Brown and Steve Wilson, owners of the 21c Museum Hotel in Louisville, Kentucky. Cummings' exhibitions have been reviewed in the San Francisco Examiner, Artweek, Art Papers, Flash Art, and Details. He has held many solo exhibitions at Nancy Hoffman Gallery in New York and at Catharine Clark Gallery — both of which represent his work. Cummings was raised in New Mexico, but made his career as an artist during the past two decades living and working in the San Francisco Bay Area. In 2014, Cummings returned to Albuquerque, New Mexico where he currently resides.

The exhibition is on view through September 1, 2018 at Catharine Clark Gallery, 248 Utah Street, San Francisco, CA 94103.
